Playstreets is a signature summer program of the Police Athletic League since its founding in 1914. Playstreets utilize parks and other public areas throughout New York City to give children free safe, supervised places to play under staff supervision. Police officers support PAL programs by engaging in one-on-one youth interactions and helping to promote positive relationships in the community. PAL offers a wide range of year-round programs for youth.

Bridget G. Brennan, New York City's Special Narcotics Prosecutor, is sponsoring the PAL West 124 Playstreet in collaboration with the NYPD and the Lenox to Fifth West 124th Street Block Association. Playstreets offer neighborhood youth an opportunity to enjoy fun recreational opportunities in a safe environment. By supporting Playstreets and other PAL programs, the Office of the Special Narcotics Prosecutor and the city's five elected District Attorneys partner with the Police Athletic League to foster positive relationships with police officers, and strengthen communities disrupted by persistent narcotics activity and violent crime.

PAL: WE'RE HERE FOR NEW YORK CITY * Children * Families * Community

New York City's Police Athletic League is the first and finest civilian-run PAL in the country. Founded in 1914, PAL has served the city's young people for over 100 years. PAL provides recreational, educational, cultural and social activities to 20,000 children annually. It is also the city's largest, independent, nonprofit youth organization.
